

These are the 10 best food and drink events in Dallas this week

May 2, 2017

Diana Oates

It's Cinco de Mayo week. Most Dallasites have a go-to place to enjoy their favorite margarita and taco combo, but if you need some direction, we've got you covered. And if that isn't your thing, there are a variety of other events to fill your schedule and your stomach, from a John Tesar book signing at Knife to a whiskey extravaganza at InterContinental Dallas.

Wednesday, May 3

Firriato Wine Tasting at CiboDivino Marketplace

This authentic Italian tasting is hosted by chef Daniele Puleo and Firriato wine ambassador Marco Scapagnini. The event features a selection of Italian bites prepared by chef Puleo that will complement each of the four Firriato wines in the flight presented by Scapagnini. Tickets are $35, and the tasting begins at 6 pm.