

What to Do This Weekend: Blues, Beer, Bubbles and Barbecue

November 15, 2017
Kathryn Debruler

Stretch that stomach out this weekend — those Thanksgiving leftovers aren't gonna eat themselves — at some of these indulgent food and drink events. At 12:01 a.m. the third Thursday of November, the new batch of Beaujolais wine is released in accordance with French law. This red, fruity wine known for its drinkability is kind of a big deal, in other words. And if you can't be in France, the next best thing is to head to CiboDivino Marketplace for an afternoon of French food and wine. Cibo chefs Daniel Puelo and Ryan Olmos will whip up some tasty bites such as mini croquemonsieurs, and Julien Eelsen of Whisk Crepes Café will bust out the customizable crepes. Glasses of Beaujolais Nouveau will be sold, food will be eaten, pleasure will be had — how very French, indeed. What it be: French Beaujolais Nouveau at CiboDivino Marketplace

When it do: noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18

Where dat is: 1868 Sylvan Ave.